NANAIMO, B.C. (CP) — Police now believe foul play is involved in the mysterious disappearance of a young Nanaimo woman on the Canada Day weekend. Lisa Young, 21, was last seen leaving a downtown Nanaimo nightclub at about 2 a.m. July 1.

There was no reason for her to disappear, she had no history of running away and everyone she knew said she was a reliable person, so police could reach no other conclusion, said RCMP spokesman Const. Jack Eubank.
